MARAYONG
Bi-colour overlay
driveway

The lighter stone works beautifully to modernise and brighten the entrance to this home

With such a large 244m<sup>2</sup> driveway, our clients could not risk using the wrong product!

Their home at Marayong NSW - was surrounded by dated pattern imprinted concrete paving that needed a revamp.

With different areas including a pool surround, long driveway and pathways, our clients were after a product that could cover the existing paving while providing a new seamless look. Aside from aesthetics, our clients were also after a solution that would see them through retirement with minimal maintenance.

Knowing that StoneSet offers a product lifespan of 25 years and the flexibility to pick several colours for the same project, our clients were excited to work with us.

They chose the 3mm Apollo stones for the main areas and the 3mm Koonunga Grey for the driveway border and circles. The lighter colours work beautifully together and have brought each area of the home back to life.

ROSEVILLE
Permeable
driveway

StoneSet's demonstration driveway is located on Eastern Valley Way, Roseville, NSW - directly opposite our office. This driveway showcases the potential of the product in so many ways!

In terms of functionality, it has been built to ensure that heavy, turning trucks can move in and out of the driveway without the risk of stones coming loose. The entire area is permeable and has been designed to incorporate the colours of the home throughout.

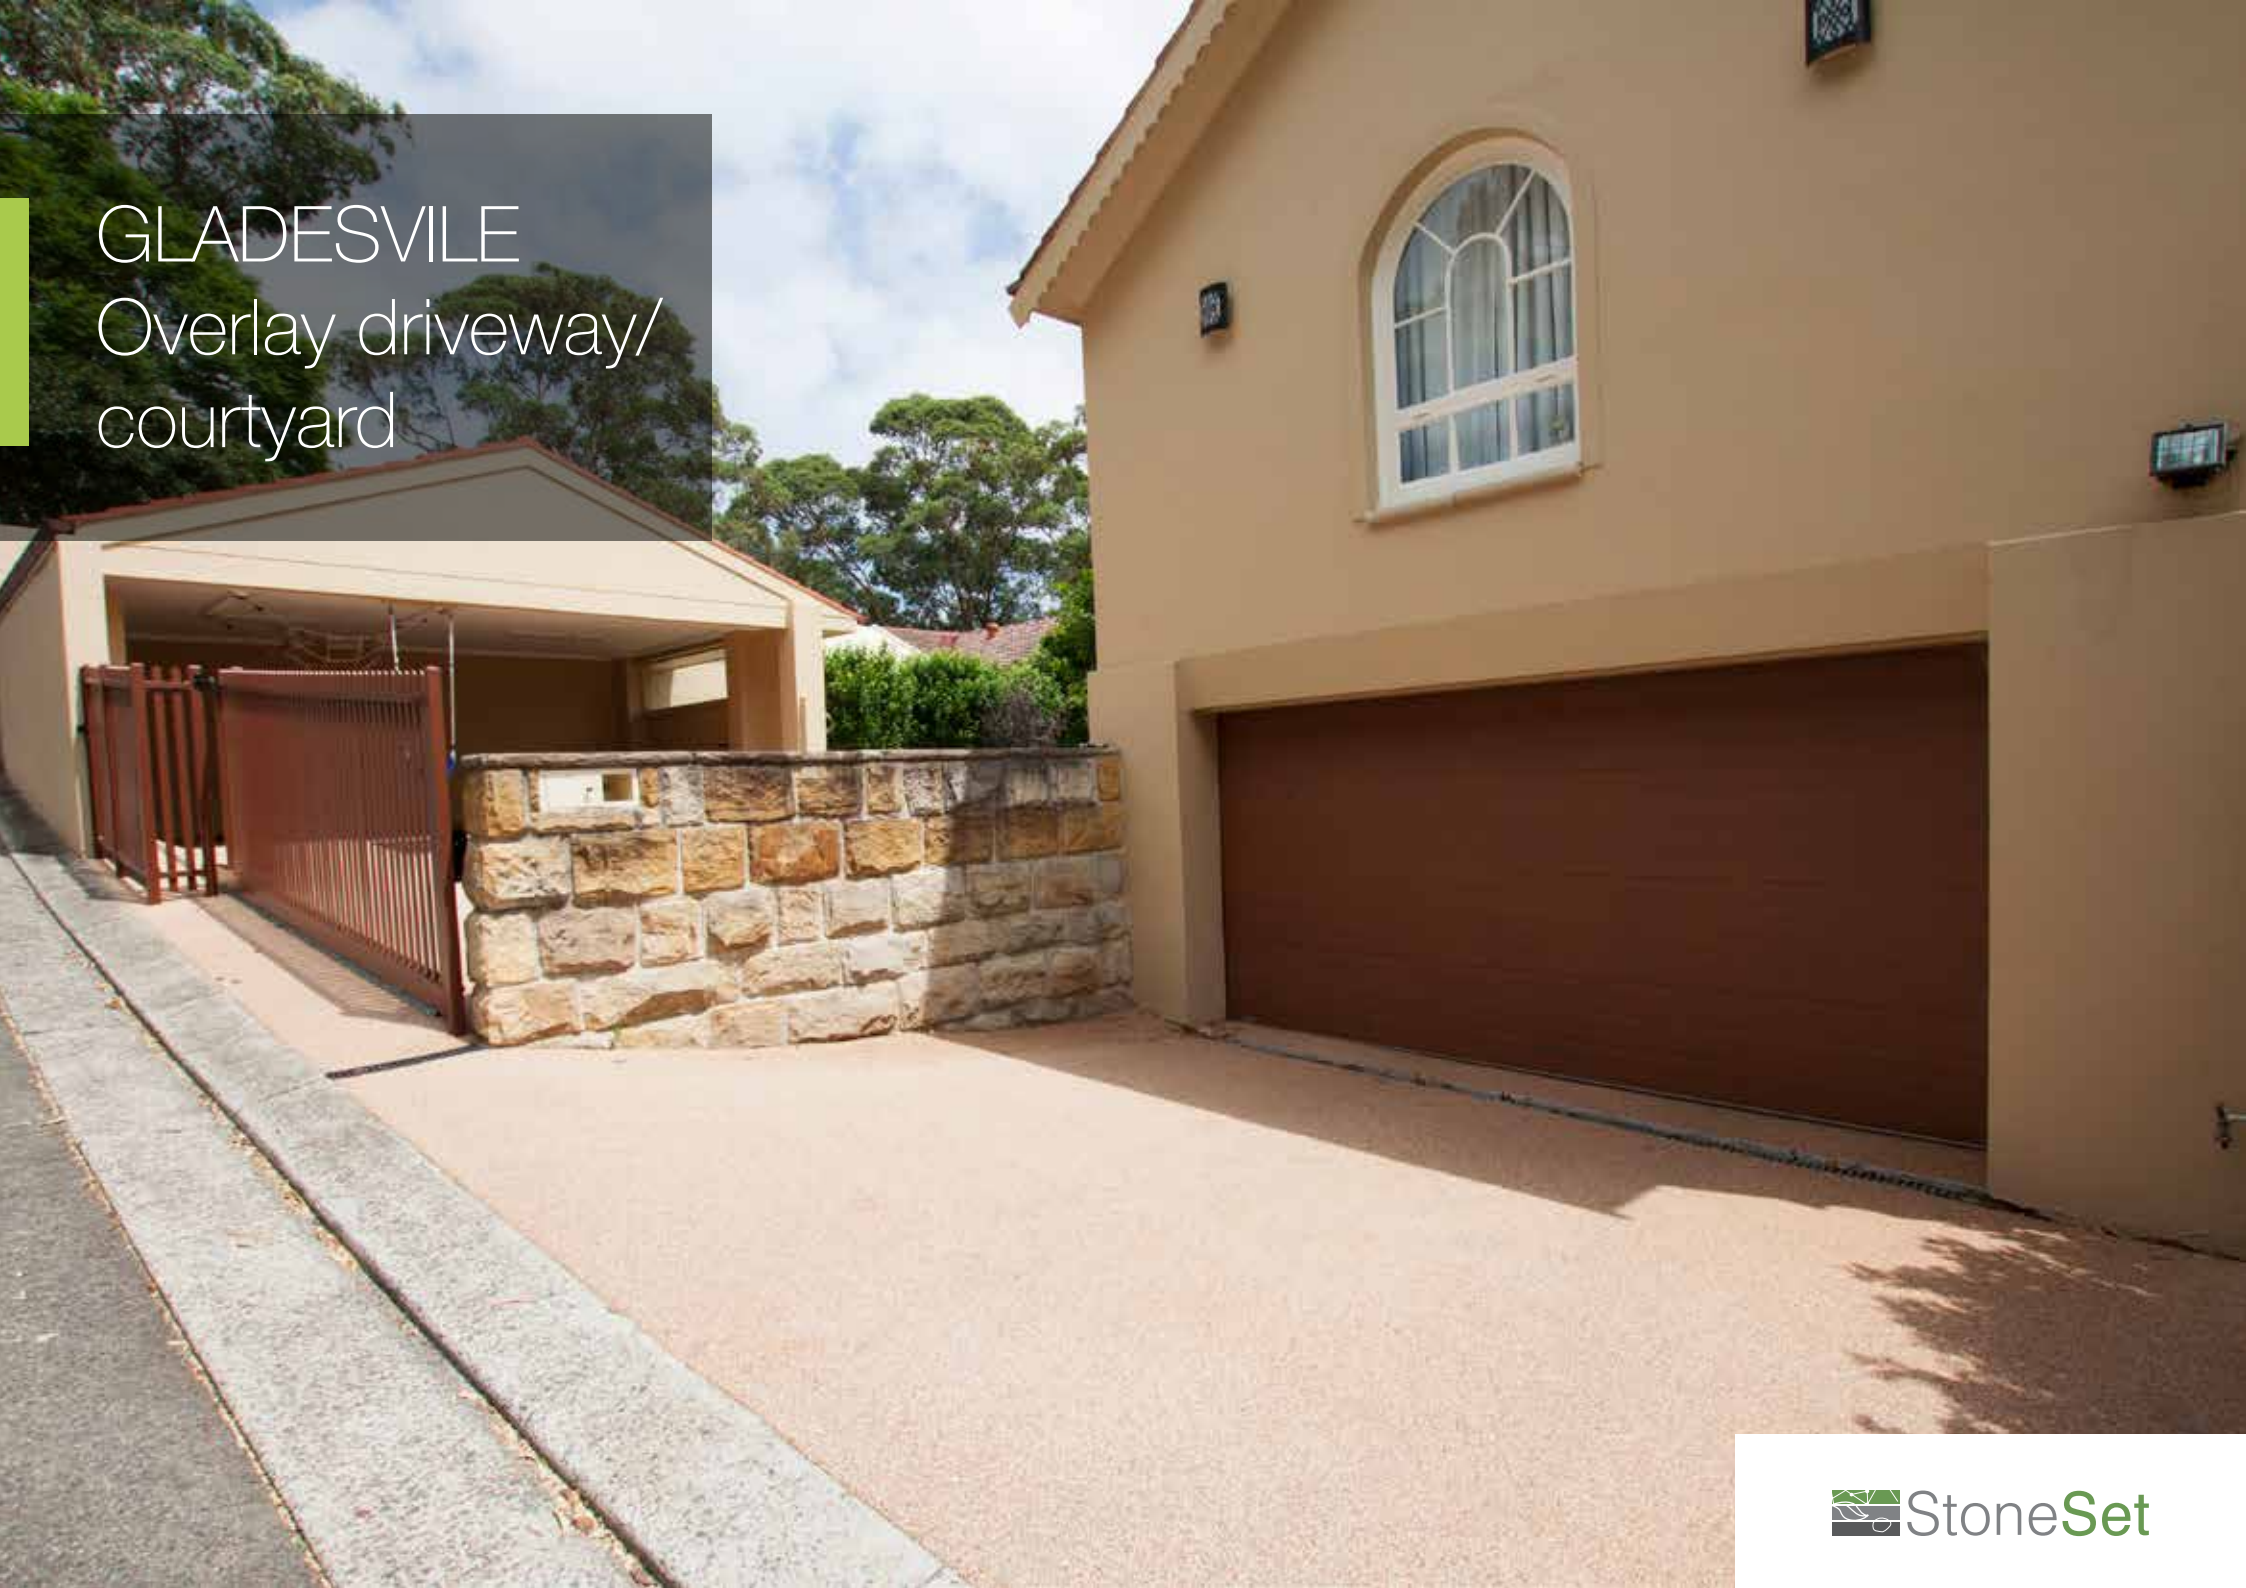

A mix of 6mm Ash, Charcoal and Arctic were chosen for the main driveway which offers the modern dark tones with a touch of white to tie in with the window frames. 6mm Apollo was then selected to complement the entrance paving and sidelining garden.

Come down and have a look for yourself!

Separated only by a thin and curved aluminium angle, each space remains defined though flows seamlessly

GLADESVILE

... the owners of this property managed to obtain the modern look they were after...

After renovating their home in Gladesville, NSW, the owners of this property managed to obtain the modern look they were after, without losing the original charm of their home. Looking for a paving product that could do the same, they came to StoneSet.

Designing their own bespoke mix of 6mm Bronze and Sienna, the stone paving surrounds the house and ties in perfectly with the colours and natural elements of the house, providing the seamless look they were after.

Without needing to remove any paving, StoneSet was simply laid over the existing pavers at a 16mm depth and completely transformed the property!

BEXLEY
Overlay driveway,
pathway, steps
and courtyard

The increasing use of concrete for contemporary home designs has left many home owners with the conundrum of what to do with their driveway? Any more concrete and the flawless design would start to blend into their car space! With this concern in mind, our clients at Bexley chose StoneSet as an overlay system for their new home.

3mm stones were enough to ensure a smooth and natural stone finish resulting in a contrasting, contemporary design.

A mix of Charcoal and Ash was chosen with the subtle change of tones further emphasising the natural look the owners were after. This mix was laid over the driveway, front pathway, side steps and across the back courtyard as the clients couldn't get enough of it!

Laid at a just a 12mm depth, the installation was non-invasive and tied in with all surrounding areas such as the garage and council cross-over.

Beautiful result.

LINDFIELD
Overlay driveway

The natural and harmonious look of the product swept over the tiles and completely transformed the area.

This beautiful house in Lindfield, NSW required a driveway upgrade. The dated tiles did neither the house nor surrounds justice and our clients were after a much needed makeover.

With an 85m<sup>2</sup> driveway, our clients knew the area was more than just somewhere they parked their car - it was the main entrance to their home.

Looking for a product that was modern yet matching the style of the beautiful house and surrounds - they found StoneSet!

The natural and harmonious look of the product swept over the tiles and completely transformed the area.

Choosing a mix of Charcoal, Tan and Ash our clients were able to involve the modern dark tone with the heritage red colour, achieving the look they were after.
